THE PLAY

Here is a comedy about George Antrobus, his wife and two children, and their general utility maid, Lily Sabina, all of Excelsior, New Jersey. George Antrobus is John Doe or George Spelvin or You—the average American at grips with a destiny, sometimes sour, sometimes sweet. The Antrobuses have survived fire, flood, pestilence, the seven-year locusts, the ice age, the black pox and the double feature, a dozen wars and as many depressions. They run many a gamut, are as durable as radiators, and look upon the future with a disarming optimism. Alternately bewitched, befuddled and becalmed, they are the stuff of which heroes are made—heroes and buffoons. They are true offspring of Adam and Eve—victims of all the ills that flesh is heir to. They have survived a thousand calamities by the skin of their teeth. Here is a tribute to their indestructibility.

HOME. EXCELSIOR, NEW JERSEY.

ACT 2

ATLANTIC CITY BOARDWALK.

HOME. EXCELSIOR, NEW JERSEY.

"The Skin of Our Teeth" was produced at the Plymouth Theatre in New York under the direction of Elia Kazan, with a distinguished cast headed by Tallulah Bankhead, Frederic March, Florence Eldridge and Florence Reed. In one of his first appearances on the New York stage, Montgomery Clift played the role of Henry.
